

Ambassador Yu Qingtai

Special Representative for Climate Change China

Ambassador Yu Qingtai is currently the Special Representative for Climate Change at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He assumed his current position in September 2007, tasked with the role of organizing and participating in international organizations on climate change.

Ambassador Yu has accumulated an extensive multilateral and bilateral experience over his three decades of service with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, China. He has worked in the Department of West and North Africa, Department of Regional Organizations and Issues and the Department of African Affairs. He has also represented China's interests abroad, during his stints at China's mission to the United Nations and as ambassador to Tanzania.