

Fellow Singaporeans,

On behalf of the Board of Directors and the Secretariat of SICCI, I extend my warmest National Day greetings to you.

National Day is an opportunity for us to reflect on Singapore's extraordinary journey and to renew our commitment to her progress.

Our nation's success has always been driven by the indomitable spirit of our people. Time and again, Singaporeans have overcome challenges and dedicated themselves to the ongoing work of nation-building. As we navigate increasing complexities and uncertainties posed by geopolitical upheavals and technological shifts, this very same spirit must & will continue to guide Singapore towards a stronger, more resilient future.

Since our inception, SICCI has been honoured to contribute to Singapore's nation-building efforts, and we have done so significantly. Generations of Indian entrepreneurs and businesses have proudly enriched Singapore's economy as well as its cultural tapestry. Crucially, these contributions were not made in isolation, but shoulder-to-shoulder with those of all communities, united by a common determination that Singapore must succeed.

SICCI remains as committed as ever, to serving our members, supporting our enterprises, especially our SMEs, and in doing so, meaningfully contributing towards the holistic prosperity of our nation.

However, in an era of increasing global disruption, we recognize that we must do more. We are determined to extend our reach, adapt to new realities, and create even greater opportunities for our business community and budding entrepreneurs.

As we raise our flags, let us joyfully celebrate our country's outstanding achievements and look ahead with absolute confidence and ambition.

Wishing you a Happy National Day!

Majulah Singapura!
